NEVER IMITATED IN QUALITY.
THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company.

The appearance of yellow fever at Key West has caused the government to change its naval base from that point to Norfolk.

The fact that an American girl has become the vice-empress of India is another evidence of the imperial tendencies of this country.

The Friends' conference which will begin at North A street meeting house tomorrow will be one of the important religious events of the year.

In Huntington county, this state, a girl jumped sixteen feet out of a window to join her lover in an elopement. The parents were opposed to the marriage. The girl was not injured in the jump. She may however discover later on that the sixteen foot leap was the least dangerous part of the transaction.

NEW YORK is reveling in one of those startling murder sensations which periodically occur just beneath the social upper crust in that city. The victim in this case was a Miss Reynolds, who had the fatal gift of beauty and wealth unaccompanied by moral balance. A rather prominent dentist named Kennedy is charged with the murder. There is no particular lesson to be drawn from the tragedy. To explain the case would be to unravel the mystery when, where and why lust and cupidity entered into the world.

The result of the war will make necessary an enlargement of the space this country expects to occupy in the Paris exposition. Commissioner-General Peck wants the space that Spain was to have but will not occupy. He says he is determined that Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines shall be represented in the American exhibits. Accordingly, he has sent a letter to Senator Culver of the Hawaiian commission requesting him to urge the islanders to prepare suitable exhibits. Similar letters will, the commissioner-general says, be sent to the military governors of Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines as soon as they shall have been appointed by the President.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Present Conditions Compared With Those of 1890.

Correspondence Richmond Palladium.

ROSEMUND AGENCY, SOUTH DAKOTA, August 10, 1898.

This reservation is home of what was once known as the Lower Brules, now called Rosebud Indians. It extends from Big White river on the north, south sixty miles to the state of Nebraska, and from the Missouri river west one hundred and twenty miles and has an area of 2,500,000 acres of land. The general lay of the country is rolling, though there are large stretches of valley and level prairie land. Much of it is worthless, being nothing but beds and hills of sand. Not twenty per cent. is arable, and this per cent. is rendered worthless for farming purposes because of the lack of rain; yet, taken as a whole, it is a better country than that of a limited number of cattle.

The whole surface of the reservation is now covered with buffalo, blue, and a wire grass, and I have seen it a few years ago. It is a very old, wide-sweeping green meadow field, charming to look at and encouraging to those who have cattle thereon and make it their future home and engage in the stock industry. The agency is thirty-five miles north of Valentine, Nebraska, the nearest railroad station, and is reached either by stage or private conveyance. It is located on a small plateau, skirting Rosebud creek and takes its name therefrom. This is the agency of which I had temporary charge, in the fall of 1890, when the Sioux war so-called, broke out and some of the scenes and incidents of that period have been brought fresh to my mind by being here at this time. In company with Mr. Caton, the boss farmer, I started one afternoon for Black Pipe, where Short Bull and his ghost-dancers held their camp, and were doing all sorts of naughty things according to report. As the purpose of holding a council with this naughty little warrior, and see if I could not induce him and his followers to go and be good. How when we reached Cut Meat school house we concluded to stay all night, and go on next day, and that about dark, a policeman came riding up in a hot and hauled me a letter from the clerk, Mullens, in which he said "you had better come back, Short Bull has called out his men and the soldiers are coming." How that Caton, no sooner than he read the letter immediately jumped up and said let us go, and started for the stable to gear up the team and hitch them to the buggy, etc. Now of course I was not alarmed, but I did seem to me he never would get ready to make the start and I never have been able to account for this tardiness only on the grounds that he was frightened at the moment.

As I have passed over the reservation I have found that while the improvement among the Indians has been striking in the past six years, I was not last among them, nevertheless it has been substantial, and in some respects is inspiring. I will not describe it; it will be an interesting sight to any one who may visit them. I was sent here for the purpose of making a thorough inspection of the agency and to do so, was compelled to travel near four hundred miles over the reservation.

In visiting the Ponca sub-agency station, which is the camp of Chief Swift Bear, a camp a hundred miles from the agency, we had quite an outing. The agent, Major McHenry, accompanied me. We had a double-seated spring wagon, in which were the interpreter, the agent, his son and myself. Then we had a supply wagon drawn by four oxen, with Omaha Boy as driver, and a policeman on horseback. The second night out we were caught in a heavy rain storm, accompanied with fearful lightning and thunder, and in the morning some of the horses were killed of water though not drowned. We all took the storm as one of the incidents of an outing and did not complain.

It was indeed difficult to start a fire in the morning, but by using a continuance in well doing he at last got one under headway, and it was not long until we sat down, or stood as we liked, and partook heartily of coffee, fried bacon, Boston baked beans and hard bread, after which we loaded up our camping fixtures and started on our journey. About 3 p. m. we reached our final station, the objective point of our trip, and at 5 o'clock to a supper prepared by the farmer's wife that was indeed appetizing and enjoyable. Along it is the home of Chief Swift Bear and above the hundred of his people. They have taken their allotments and have generally settled on them and are making some progress towards the white man's mode of living. Chief Swift Bear is an old man and loves to tell about the times when he was young: When

It Was Scrofula

Medicines Drove the Humor to His Eyes.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Eradicated the Humor from His System.

"I had appeared on my little boy's shoulder and face, and of the medicine prescribed for me to drive the humor from his face. I refer to his eyes, which were so sore. The more medicine I used, the more the humor spread. I was much of what Hood's Sarsaparilla had done for others. We decided to try it. He began taking it, and we persevered in its use and after a while the eruptions began to disappear, and finally the flesh was all healed over. From that time there has been no return of the scrofula." Miss C. E. DORR, Silver Lake, Indiana.

The Indians swarmed these hills and valleys in undisturbed freedom and when the country was filled with countless numbers of buffaloes, elk, deer and antelope from which they obtained their principal food supply. One cannot but feel a sympathy for these Indians as he listens to their picturing in glowing colors the glory, to them at least, of those bright days. They recognize, however, that these days are gone to return no more, and are endeavoring to adjust themselves to the new and changed conditions which are gradually gathering about them.

After inspecting this issue station and resting a day or two, we started back to the agency. On the second day and about 9 a. m., a rain storm which had been threatening all morning, struck us and we were obliged to stop and adjust our canvas so as to protect us, and under this we sat for three hours while the rain poured down upon us.

It was a pretty dreary waiting, but we bore it bravely. The sky cleared about noon, and after a cup of coffee and some hard bread, we were again on the way, the horses in the start shivering with cold. It became so chilly in the afternoon that I had to wear my overcoat; had a horse blanket for a lap robe and a woolen blanket wrapped around me, and this the last day of August. In the evening we went into camp on Hole creek, and pitched our tent by a large water hole, which was full of fish. Horses were unhitched and picketed out, fire was made, and we had a couple of prairie chickens which had been killed during the afternoon. After Lewey had dressed them I insisted on the privilege of frying them, for I believed it was a better job than he, and I think I succeeded, which I believe was the judgment of the company.

Enough of fish were caught to make a good meal for breakfast, and here I again demonstrated my culinary ability. We reached the agency about 3 p. m. Tuesday, glad that the journey was over, having been gone eight days.

While visiting Cut Meat and Black Pipe issue stations I took a peep into the Bad Lands, and camped one night on Cedar Butte, the highest point in this region of these famous lands. The view from the butte was impressive, and in some respects is inspiring. I will not describe it; it will be an interesting sight to any one who may visit them.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Gorton, S. D., "I was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs, coughed set in and finally terminated in consumption. I was unable to do my work, and my health was so bad that I could not leave my bed. I was advised to try a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I did so. I am now well and able to do my work, and my health is so good that I can do anything I wish to do. I am very grateful to Dr. Williams for what he has done for me. Well, this is my way and I am done. If the spirit of writing moves me you will probably hear from me again. E. B. REYNOLDS.

An Elquent Speaker.

True eloquence was voiced by John Speaker, of Catawba, Ohio, when he says: "I had five large fever sores on my face, and I tried to get doctors without benefit. All said I could not be cured but I fooled them by curing myself with one bottle of Electric Bitters and one box of Backlen's Arnica Salve." Electric Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It gently stimulates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, so that poisonous matter cannot remain in the system. It cures dyspepsia, malaria, constipation, nervousness, aids digestion, improves appetite, increases strength, gives new life. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. G. Lukken & Co., druggists.

UNITED BRETHREN CONFERENCE.

Reports of Various Committees Heard—Attendance is Large.

MORRISTOWN, Indiana, August 19.—To-day's session of the White river conference, radical United Brethren church at Mount Carmel, located south of this place, was devoted to the hearing of the reports of the various committees appointed yesterday. The committee on elders reported the Rev. R. A. Morrissett, of Huntington, the Rev. John Jackson of Fairland, the Rev. E. E. Floyd of Dublin, the Rev. J. C. Moody of Lynn and N. Beck of Herbst as having completed the three years' course of study prescribed by the church, and they will be ordained to the office of elder Sunday morning. The Rev. S. McNew and the Rev. W. A. Oler, of Dublin, were elected presiding elders and will be assigned to their circuit at tomorrow's business meeting.

The devotional exercises this evening were conducted by the Rev. H. W. Robbins and the evening sermon was delivered by the Rev. M. F. Keiter, of Huntington, publisher of the Christian Conservator. The Rev. T. J. Jefferson, of Indianapolis, also addressed an overflow meeting in the tent. Both ministers preached from the same text, Large crowds are attending the meetings both night and day. The appointments of the ministers to their circuits will be made tomorrow and will conclude the business of the conference.

(You have been sick you will find Hood's Sarsaparilla the best medicine you can take to give you appetite and strength.

AMUSEMENTS.

JULIE WALTERS COMING.

The popular comedian, Julie Walters, of whom so much has been said, will present his latest comedy dramatic success to the patrons of The Bradley Thursday, August 25. The name of his new play is "How Hopper Was Side Tracked." Mr. Walters' character in this piece is that of a wind-mill agent who gets himself into many predicaments. The scenery has been made one of the special features, and the cast supporting Mr. Walters is said to be faultless.

Mother Sharp Dead.

(Kokomo News.)
At ten minutes past 4 o'clock July 29, '98, just as the bright sun was coming over the eastern hills, with loving, affectionate friends surrounding her, the last spark in the grand, good life of Mrs. Elizabeth Sharp was extinguished. For thirteen long, wearisome years Mother Sharp has been afflicted, and how patiently, and with what Christian fortitude, she has borne that severe affliction.

Sharp was a woman whom almost every one knew. She grew up with this community, and no one better understood the needs of its straits, and no one knew better how to administer to them than she and her husband, Mr. Cass Sharp, who died four years ago. She was beloved by every one, especially by the members of the M. E. church, of which she was a life-long member. Her entire life has been one long, joyful service for her Master. It used to be said that when she prayed, she would almost see the sublime light of Christ illumine her countenance. She was a Christian in the true sense of the term, and the last few years of her life, when she was undergoing intense suffering with matry-like patience, was but a true typification of the preceding years. Her sole aim was to administer to others and to bring others unto Christ. When there was some suffering mortal to call on and pray for, she would be found ready for this labor. She was a plain woman and cared little for the luxuries of life, and all his true Christians shared all his deep disbonesty. As stated above she has been afflicted for thirteen years with nervous prostration, but her recent fatal illness was only of a week's duration. She was a daughter of John H. and Susan Thomas, and was born at Wilmington, Delaware, January 3, 1830. While she was yet a small girl, her parents moved to Richmond, Indiana. Here she became affiliated with the M. E. church.

On September 19, 1853, she was joined in marriage to George W. Neilson, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. From this union two children were born, Councilman John T. Neilson, of this city, and Henrietta Elizabeth Neilson, who died October 27, 1855. Her husband, George W. Neilson, died May 26, 1870, she was married to Casswell Sharp and moved to Kokomo. They resided at the Sharp homestead on north Main street. Mr. Sharp died June 20, 1894. Mrs. Sharp then moved to the home of her son, number 65 West Malberry street, Kokomo. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. T. Gregg, pastor of Grace M. E. church, interment in Crown Point cemetery.

ATHLETES

The Pennsylvania Company's Athletic Contests at Columbus, Ohio, Today.

A car load of athletes with their bicycles, etc., formed a portion of the train number 8 last evening for the east. They were enroute to Columbus, Ohio, to take part in the Pennsylvania company's athletic contests held there today. They had a ball team and a number of fast riders, twenty-eight men in all, and expected to win some things. All were Pennsylvania employees. They were in the employ of E. R. Reed, formerly of this city and who is now foreman in the shops of the company at Indianapolis. Forrest Rosser, Charles Strindorf, Ed. Stewick and Charles Haspelt went from this city to represent the company's local force in boat riding. They are in fine form and hope to win something.

This morning a special section of train number 6 from Indianapolis, with six coaches and a baggage car, was run from Indianapolis and intermediately bearing the Pennsylvania company's local force in boat riding. They are in fine form and hope to win something. The train load represented the "rooters" for the Indiana team. They were probably 300 people on the train. Robert Henley and George McGraw went from this city to attend the races. The crowds that went were happy and shouting, ready to enjoy to the full their holiday. The women and children were much in evidence, and all appeared to be imbued with the holiday spirit.

Bradstreet's Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, N. Y., August 20.—Perhaps the most interesting feature of the general business situation at present is the air of confidence with which the mercantile community awaits the approach of the fall trade period. While of course based in some degree on the favorable results already achieved in many lines, it is unquestionably true that the clearing crop outlook at home and the return of peace, with the expectation of benefits to our export trade naturally expected to accrue therefrom, make for much of the feeling the export. The reports as to collections are very encouraging. From winter wheat sections especially reports are very good. Some slowness is noted in payments at the northwest, but this is expected to change when the spring wheat crop moves. Business failures are larger in number than last week, aggregating 195, against 157 last week, but compared with 221 in the week of the year ago, 264 in 1896, 192 in 1895 and 251 in 1894.

Buyers are appearing in increasing numbers at leading western markets. Chicago reports increased activity in distributive trade on country demand, with dry goods shipments especially large.

NOT A PLEASANT PEOPLE.

NOTES of the Philippines Use Poisoned Arrows and Ugly Daggers.

Some of these men are decidedly unprepossessing in appearance, and if those people in America who are clamoring loudly for the annexation of the Philippine islands could spend a short time in the company of those proposed allies and prospective American citizens they might wonder whether after all the game were worth the candle. Most of the Philippine islanders are persons who fight with knives and poisoned arrows. I once had the privilege of witnessing the preparation of a number of these poisoned weapons, and as nearly as I can remember the process was about as follows:

The poison was made from the bark of two different trees, the names of which I have forgotten. One of the pieces of bark was beaten almost to jelly, pressed and dried, then moistened and again pressed. Though the man used his bare hands in doing this he apparently was not injured in any way by contact with the poison. The pieces of the bark thus extracted looked very much like pea soup as it simmered in an earthen vessel over a slow fire. When a quantity of pulp from the second piece of bark was scraped off and the juice of this squeezed into the sirup over the fire. The juice of the second piece of bark was dark brown and the liquid in the vessel was darkened and changed as soon as the new ingredient was stirred into it. The mixture was then allowed to simmer for some time, until it had attained the consistency of jelly, when it was scraped out of the vessel with a chip and put on a large leaf which had been plentifully sprinkled with ash.

This preparation can be kept a long time without losing any of its strength. To poison an arrowhead a piece of this jellylike substance about the size of a hickory nut is warmed and rubbed all over the point, which can be used repeatedly without the poison losing its virtue. The natives also have daggers with sharp pointed blades about four inches wide and a foot long, which they call laramas. They are very dextrous in the use of this weapon, and if they can lay hold of an adversary by one of the arms and carry it home as a trophy of war, Manila Cor. Medical News.

TO DRIVE OUT DISEASE.

Professor Treffy's Novel Plan for Reclaiming the Isle of Cuba.

Professor Nelson G. Treffy of Toledo has proposed to the United States government a novel and practicable method for ridding the Cuban isle of the fever and death-laden air. The proposition is looked upon so favorably that government officials are corresponding with the professor regarding his plan. Professor Treffy claims that Cuba and the other islands infested with the malarial germ can be made perfectly healthy by systems of drainage combined with the growing of the eucalyptus globulus, or blue gum tree of Australia. This tree is known to scientists to be a natural disinfectant. Professor Treffy asserts that the planting of the gum tree will work marvelous results. Territory which has been as good as uninhabitable on account of the malarial germ laden water and air has been literally transformed. The tree will thrive in deep. Mr. Treffy says it is the intention of the United States government to inaugurate this plan in Cuba, Porto Rico and other places where malarial miasma will rush as soon as peace has been fully and finally declared. The wood and oil of the blue gum is highly prized from a mercantile standpoint, and it is believed that any malarial germ in this line will be amply repaid after the districts are reclaimed.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The President's Desk.

The desk used at the White House by the president of the United States is interesting in itself, apart from its connection with the ruler of a nation. It is a token of the good will existing between two peoples. Although occupying so prominent a place in the official residence of America's chosen governor, it is not of American manufacture. It was fashioned in England, and was a present from the queen to a former president. It was made from the timbers of H. M. S. Resolute, which was sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852. The ship was caught in the ice and had to be abandoned. It was not destined to go to pieces in frozen waters, however. An American whaler discovered and extricated it. Rose-hute was at last broken up and from her timbers a desk was made, which was sent by her majesty "as a memorial of the courtesy and loving kindness which dictated the offer of the gift of the Resolute."

At this desk, itself a representative of the kindly feeling of both nations, the president has the greater part of his writing. Youth's Companion.

Chronic Dyspepsia Cured.

AFTER suffering for nearly thirty years from dyspepsia, Mrs. B. E. Dugdale, wife of a prominent business man of Warsaw, N. Y., writes: "For 25 years, I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and a weak stomach. The slightest food produced distress, causing severe pain and the formation of gas. No matter how carefully I ate I suffered agonizing pain after eating. I was treated by many physicians and used numerous remedies without permanent help. Two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and Nervine. Within a week I commenced improving, and persisting in the treatment I was soon able to eat what I liked, with no evil effects. I keep them at hand and a single dose dispels any old symptoms."
